DETAILED ACTION

NEW REJECTIONS

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

- 1. Claims 9-19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. The permanent magnets being layered to cooperate with the border of the covering overlapping the surface area of the adhering elements is not described in such a way that enables one skilled in the art to make use of the invention.
- 2. Claim 9 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The new matter consists of a ferromagnetic coating extending throughout the entire foam-inhibiting covering.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1772

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 9-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Billarant (5442156) in view of Provost (WO 86/03164).

Billarant discloses a method for producing a foam body part having at least one adhesive closing part with adhering elements (figure 6 number 18), comprising the steps of arranging an adhesive closing part in a foam mold (figure 6 number 51) for forming a foamed body part; protecting adhering elements on the adhesive closing part against penetration of foam by arranging a foam-inhibiting covering (figure 6 number 20) on a side of adhesive closing part opposite the adhering elements, the foaminhibiting covering having a predetermined border width overlapping and extending beyond a surface area of the adhering elements (figure 6 number 20); and bringing the foam-inhibiting covering into detachable contact with parts of the foaming mold by permanent magnets in parts of the foaming mold (figure 6 number 52 and col. 6 line 18), the permanent magnets being layered to cooperate with the border of the covering overlapping the surface area of the adhering elements (figure 6 numbers 52 and 24). Billarant discloses an adhesive layer connects the covering element to the adhesive closing part (col. 5 lines 37-40). Billarant discloses that the adhering elements are received in a recess in the foaming mold (figure 6 number 118 and 50); and the border of the foam-inhibiting covering overlaps the recess (figure 6 number 53). Billarant discloses that the foam-inhibiting covering has a synthetic layer and a layer containing ferromagnetic substances and forms an adhesive base of the adhesive closing part (col. Art Unit: 1772

5 lines 37-39). Billarant fail to disclose that the ferromagnetic coating extending throughout the entire foam-inhibiting coating. Billarant fail to disclose that the ferromagnetic coating is polyurethane with added iron particles. Billarant fail to disclose that the synthetic resin layer is a polyurethane layer. Provost teaches that polyurethane is a notoriously well-known adhesive in the art (pg 3 lines 20-22).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to have provided Billarant with polyurethane in the ferromagnetic coating and as the synthetic layer in order to better adhere the covering element to the adhesive closing part as taught by Provost.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to have provided ferromagnetic coating extending throughout the entire foam-inhibiting coating in order to better secure the covering element to the adhesive closing part.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-8 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

1/21/02

Art Unit: 1772

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
